Community collaboration kept Copley afloat with water

For nine days as a result of the July 2023 flooding, the Health Center Building parking lot at Copley Hospital was the home to several water storage/haulers in order to keep the water flowing into the hospital during the "do not drink the water and boil water only" notices.

Lamoille County and neighboring towns have certainly seen their share of rainfall this summer, resulting in catastrophic flooding, damage to houses, farms, roadways, and infrastructure, and the contamination of many towns' drinking water systems.

For over a week, water storage tanks and daily tractor trailers hauling water were the norm at Copley. "While we are grateful the restrictions were lifted last Wednesday, we would be remiss in not thanking Manosh Corp., the State of Vermont Agency of Natural Resources, FEMA, and the town of Stowe for keeping our water system afloat and flowing," said Copley's VP of Development and Marketing Trish Rick. "The situation could have been much worse had it not been for the immediate action of Manosh, who had their potable water tanker and hauler trucks at Copley shortly after the 'do not drink the water' notice was issued the morning of Tuesday, July 11."

"Water is essential to our operations," said

Mark Sutton, Director of Facilities, Safety and Security. "In addition to plumbing and heating needs, water is necessary in areas that impact patient care, including surgical operations, food services, inpatient care, and more." Sutton noted that the hospital would have been in a difficult spot had Manosh not been able to tie into the hospital's water system and had haulers been unable to make daily deliveries. "Their support allowed us to operate as close to normal as possible under these extremely challenging circumstances," continued Sutton.

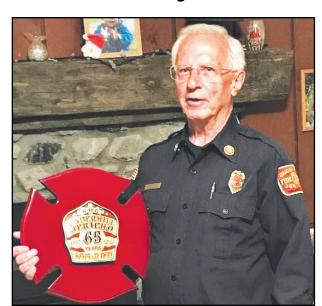

In addition to the haulers, the hospital received deliveries of bottled water from The Alchemist, the local Hannaford, community members, and the state. "As well as ensuring staff received bottled water, we shared it with our community partners, including the Manor, Lamoille Health Partners, and Lamoille Home Health & Hospice," said Sutton.

"We are grateful beyond words for the support we received," concluded Rick.

UJFD honors Honorary Chief

Clark of Underhill was recognized and honored for his many years of service to the community as a member and leader of the Underhill Jericho Fire Department (UJFD). Randy says, "Tonight I attended my weekly UJFD fire training and received two awards! I joined the UJFD in 1957 and have served as Firefighter, 2nd Assistant Chief, 1st Assistant Chief, Chief, and Honorary Chief. I am the longest serving member of the UJFD (established in 1913) and received a 65 Year Award and also a Perfect Attendance Award — I have had perfect attendance every year since 2017, and most years prior to that!" Congratulations, Randy, and thank you!

LVRT and Cambridge Greenway remain closed until further notice

By Laird MacDowell, Chair, Cambridge Trails Committee

Both the Lamoille Valley Rail Trail (LVRT) and the Cambridge Greenway remained closed to all users due to extensive damage from the July 11th river flood event. The cost of repairing the Greenway will be covered under emergency FEMA funding and requests for bids will be sent to contractors this week by Jonathan DeLaBruere, Cambridge Town Administrator. FEMA representatives have walked the 1.25 mile long Greenway to view and document the flood damage.

Here is the latest announcement from Vtrans concerning the closure of the LVRT:

Project Update: Rail to Trail Conversion: LVRT Rail Trail Corridor

VTrans staff have been out assessing and cataloging the damage to the trail all week and are beginning to develop a timeline for repairs. Apart from the evident problems such as damage to bridges and culverts, VTrans has identified several locations along the trail where embankment failures and significant washouts may pose more danger than is apparent, and these concerns may be worsened by the recent rainfall on July 21.

In order to keep everyone safe and to give VTrans time to develop a plan for better communication and signage for areas that will remain closed for a longer duration, the entire trail will remain closed until further notice. There are several stretches of the trail that received very little damage and we do expect to have more information available early next week about segments that can safely be reopened.

In the meantime, VTrans encourages you to consider a visit to the Missisquoi Valley Rail Trail, Delaware and Hudson Rail Trail, or the Beebe Spur Rail Trail. More information on those trails and the latest updates on the status of the LVRT can be found at https://railtrails.vermont.gov/.

For updates on trail conditions, visit the Vermont Rail Trail System website's Trail Updates page at https://railtrails.vermont.gov/trail-updates/.

Business Assistance Fund to open in early August

By Pat Ripley, Lamoille Economic Development Corporation

During his press conference on Thursday, July 27, Governor Scott and ACCD Commissioner Goldstein discussed additional details for the $20 million Business Emergency Gap Assistance Grant Program. Below are the latest details regarding the program.

The application portal will open next week (first week of August) on the ACCD website, and money should start going out in two weeks. Grants will be given on a first come, first served basis. Applicants need to submit a list of documented damages, inclusive of damage assessment reports and photos. Grant amounts will be 20% of Net Physical Loss to the business, capped at $20,000.

When determining Net Physical Loss, all other grants and private funding (including gofundme amounts) that the business has received or expects to receive, will be subtracted from the net loss total.

Businesses that have had extensive physical damage (in excess of $1M) may be awarded funds beyond the $20,000 cap, depending on the number of employees that have been laid off due to the flooding. One million of the $20M is being set aside for agriculture.

The Vermont Business Emergency Gap Assistance Program is being administered by the Vermont Department of Economic Development and provides $20 million directly to impacted businesses and not-for-profits who suffered physical damage due to the severe flooding in the form of grants.

We are working to assist businesses in Lamoille County who have been impacted by flooding. The LEDC 2023 Flood webpage provides the most up-to-date information we have about assistance and resources available to businesses.

Additional details and local fundraising efforts can be found online at https://lamoilleeconomy.org/2023-flood/.

The Lamoille County Business Resource Center is open, located at the Lamoille County Agriculture Building, 29 Sunset Dr., Morrisville, VT 05661 (bottom floor). Hours: Monday-Sunday, 8:00 AM – 5:00 PM.

Small Business Association (SBA) service providers are accepting in-person consultations to businesses considering disaster and economic injury loans. All Vermont residents impacted by the flood can be served by the Business Recovery Center.

SBA customer service representatives can answer questions about disaster assistance programs, assist survivors with applications and upload documents, and provide updates on an application's status. You do not need to schedule an appointment and drop-ins are welcomed.

The center will operate as indicated until further notice. A FEMA representative has also been added to the team there.

Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DUA) through the State of Vermont Department of Labor (VDOL) provides temporary benefits to individuals whose employment or self-employment has been lost or interrupted as a direct result of a major disaster and who are not eligible for regular unemployment insurance (UI). DUA applications are now being accepted. For more details check out https://lamoilleeconomy.org/2023-flood/.

Individuals residing, working, or scheduled to work in Chittenden, Lamoille, Rutland, Washington, Windham, and Windsor counties may be eligible for DUA benefits. All applicants must apply for regular Unemployment Insurance (UI) before applying for DUA benefits. VDOL will determine if people who are applying for regular UI benefits qualify, and if not, those applicants will be given the ability to apply for DUA.

To ensure the most accurate and up-to-date information regarding DUA, applicants are encouraged to visit the official Vermont Department of Labor website at https://labor.vermont.gov/dua.

Tax Relief — Governor Phil Scott has directed the Commissioner of Taxes to extend Vermont tax deadlines for Vermonters impacted by the severe flooding of July 2023. Taxpayers impacted by flooding and unable to meet Vermont tax deadlines between July 7, 2023-November 15, 2023, will now have until November 15, 2023, to file and pay taxes.

Taxpayers impacted by the flood do not need to contact the Department of Taxes to request extensions for the tax types listed below. Due dates between July 7, 2023-November 15, 2023 will automatically be extended for taxpayers impacted.

We are working to assist businesses in Lamoille County who have been impacted by flooding. The LEDC 2023 Flood webpage provides the most up-to-date information we have about assistance and resources available to businesses. Additional details are also listed online at https://lamoilleeconomy.org/2023-flood/.

Flood updates: Bolton

By Amy Grover Town Clerk and Treasurer, Bolton Tuesday, July 18

Highway updates: Jacob Johnson, our Road Commissioner, reported that the team hopes to have Notch Road back open later today (maybe) or tomorrow. Thanks to the Highway Department teams from Huntington, Underhill, and Jericho who have all been lending Bolton AND Richmond a hand. A recovery this speedy would not have been possible without their help. AND big thanks and kudos to Jacob, Eric, Jim, and Brett who have been spending long hours responding to and repairing all the damage (very significant in areas!) that Bolton's roads received from the rain event on Sunday night. We appreciate all of your hard work and long hours!

Thanks again to the BVFD, especially once again, to Mike and Andrew Gervia and Brittany Spence who spent another restless night at the Fire Station on Sunday night making sure residents were safe, and at the ready for calls. Did you know that our Fire Department has logged 320 hours over the last 10 days? Wow. All we can say is thank you!!

We also want to thank our residents for their kind words of appreciation and their help to friends and neighbors over the last several days. Trying, terrifying and difficult times for many of us, and we thank everyone for their kindness and caring to our community.

Monday, July 17

Notch and Stage Road are closed!

• Notch Road is CLOSED due to washouts — damage assessments are still coming in — more information will be posted as it becomes available. Stage Road is is CLOSED due to washouts near the Jonesville end. We understand driveways have been washed out — the town does not have resources to assist property owners at this time.

1:14 p.m. — Notch Road is still closed at the bottom near U.S. Rt. 2, there is no access to Route 2. There is a one-lane closure in the vicinity of Varin's Gravel Pit and the school bus turnaround — please use caution when traveling in this area.

Damage? PLEASE call 211!

• If you have ANY damage to your property from last week (July 9-11) or from last night (July 16), PLEASE report that damage to 211! Your reports will help flow/trigger resources and funding to Vermont, AND will impact whether we get an "IA" declaration — that is Individual Assistance declaration from FEMA! Please help your neighbors and the town and report all damages, no matter how small, to 211! Thank you.

If you are having difficulty reporting property damage via 211, please report directly to FEMA via this portal: https://www.disasterassistance.gov/.

BVAR Culvert Work Postponed!

Students document Richmond flooding

By Angelike A. Contis, Mount Mansfield Community TV

Thank you to all who sent us their footage — from whatever tools they had handy (from cell phones to drones) — of last month's historic flooding in Richmond. We've done our part to record the unfortunate, dramatic events, but also the Richmond spirit through the difficulty.

MMU student Derek Hefel put together this five-minute compilation of all those points-of-view, including his own cell phone (when he wasn't able to get into MMCTV to grab a camera, due to the water!): https://archive.org/details/crowdsourced-richmond-july-2023-flooding-07172023.

Flood recovery guidance for lawns and gardens

If you have additional questions, you can submit them online at https://www.uvm.edu/extension/mastergardener/helpline.

Best wishes to all who have been affected.

St. Mary's masses move to St. Thomas

Because of last month's flooding in Jeffersonville, masses will be celebrated at St. Thomas Catholic Church, Underhill Center, at the regular times of masses at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Jeffersonville: 6:30 PM on Saturday, and 10:30 AM on Sunday, in addition to the regular St. Thomas masses.

Cambridge Christian Fellowship services moved

Due to the flood conditions, Cambridge Christian Fellowship (CCF) will not hold its service at the church for the time being. Instead, we have been graciously offered to have our service at the Hands of Grace Church, located at 184 John Putnam Memorial Dr., just off VT Rt. 15 in Cambridge. The service will start at 8:00 AM and end at 9:30 AM.

It is anticipated that it will take a couple of weeks to get the building habitable, so watch for notice of when services will resume at CCF.

3SquaresVT hot food waiver and benefit replacement

The State of Vermont was just approved to allow 3SquaresVT/SNAP participants to buy hot and hot prepared foods at SNAP-authorized retailers (grocery stores, general and convenience stores, farmers markets, etc). Vermont got a waiver so 3SquaresVT benefits can be used statewide until Friday, August 18 to purchase hot, prepared foods at locations that accept EBT cards. Retailers are working on making this possible at their locations.

The USDA says due to the flooding, many Vermonters cannot store food and lack the access to cook food. Hot food typically is not allowed to be bought with those benefits, but authorized retailers have been notified that the rules have been temporarily suspended until Friday, August 18.

To find local SNAP-authorized retailers, go to https://usda-fns.maps.arcgis.com/home/index.html and enter "SNAP Retailer Locator" in the search box.

There are also many farmers' markets that accept SNAP benefits. Those can be viewed at Hunger Free Vermont's website at https://www.nofavt.org/services-resources/consumers/community-food-access/crop-cash.

General Food Assistance (3 Squares): Apply at https://dcf.vermont.gov/benefits/3SquaresVT or call 1-800-479-6151.

Application assistance is available for those 60 and older by calling the AgeWell's Senior Helpline at 1-800-642-5119.

If you are not already enrolled in 3SquaresVT (money to purchase food) and your income has shifted, you may newly be eligible! Text VFBCHAT to 61222 to connect with 3SquaresVT.

If you are already enrolled in 3SquaresVT, and your household lost food due to the flood or a power outage, please call 1-800-479-6151. You can get up to one month of your benefits replaced. The deadline to report this loss is Wednesday, August 9. There is a form to fill out (Form 271) to report the loss. In some cases, people get benefits back on their EBT card the next day.

Tip: include a specific amount of food value, not a range — and don't leave it blank. For verification section, you can write "due to flooding — (name of town)" if you don't have contact info.

Our Vermont Foodbank team is here to support as always. We can help you report lost 3SquaresVT benefits, connect you with local food resources, and more. Text VFBCHAT to 61222 or call 855-855-6181

Flood cleanup: please separate debris from hazardous waste

By Mark Bosma, Public Information Officer, VT Department of Public Safety

Those cleaning their homes after the flood should put their debris (*not common household trash) near the public road. Towns will pick up the debris or work with a contractor remove.

It is important that you sort out any household hazardous waste like cleaning supplies, fuel, paint, etc. Those items will be collected at a later date. Guidance can be found at https://www.fema.gov/fact-sheet/debris-removal-guidelines-help-you-and-your-community. You needn't make six piles but hazardous materials should be stored away.

VT's oldest loon died from blunt trauma

In June. the Vermont Center for Ecostudies (VCE) announced the death of Vermont's oldest known loon, a 31-year-old male from Newark Pond. At the time, VCE Vermont Loon Conservation Project biologist Eric Hanson was awaiting results from an autopsy report, hoping it would shed some light on the loon's cause of death and overall health. Hanson received the results in late July, and they show the loon was in excellent health at the time of its death and displayed injuries consistent with blunt trauma.

The "Newark Pond Male" was examined by Dr. Mark Pokras from Tufts Veterinary School of Medicine. "Dr. Pokras and I thought this would be another lead poisoning case because the x-ray showed a sinker in the gizzard. And lead poisoning is the leading cause of loon mortality in the Northeast," says Hanson. "However, when Dr. Pokras tested the loon for lead, the results were insignificant — lead did not kill this loon. The sinker was not lead. All signs point to a high-speed, one-sided impact, possibly caused by a motorboat hit."

The Newark Pond Male's advanced age was a testament to the success of loon conservation efforts in Vermont. When the loon was originally tagged by Hanson in 1998, loon populations across the Northeast were so low that the species was listed as endangered in Vermont. Thanks to the hard work of Hanson, the VT Fish & Wildlife Department, community members, and countless others, loon populations recovered enough to be delisted in 2005. Once a rare spectacle, loons now occupy many Vermont lakes and ponds, where they charm birders, water-sport enthusiasts, and property owners alike with their showy plumage and haunting calls. In 2021, Vermont's loons had their most productive year since the Vermont Loon Conservation Project began, with 109 nest attempts and 85 chicks surviving through August.

"Despite the success of the past few decades, loons still face many risks across their range," Hanson says. "Vermont's loons must regularly contend with fishing gear, predators, malaria (and other diseases), human disturbance at nest sites, and much more."

The Newark Pond Male is a reminder of both conservation victories and the work that remains to protect the state's loon populations. "It's always sad when the death of a wild creature who has occupied space in our lives can potentially be attributed to human-caused activity," says Hanson. "And this particular individual has been a striking presence for over 25 years."

In general, boats colliding with loons is rare, with only nine total cases documented in the past 25 years. Most boat hits are unintentional; loons can pop up anywhere, just like deer darting in front of a moving car.

"I'm sure there have been hundreds of close calls, but loons can usually dive out of the way," says Hanson. "However, as loons become more habituated to boat traffic, they might be less likely to dive."

Although boat strikes play a small role in the big picture of threats to loons, boaters play an essential part in loon protection. When it comes to loon-safe boating, awareness is key. "It's crucial that everyone add loons to the list of things to watch out for when on the water, along with swimmers and kayakers," says Hanson. "If you see a loon in one part of the lake, avoid that area for a short time. However, like boaters, loons will frequently use the entire lake. Please remember to slow down when you see loons, especially adults with chicks. Chicks are poor divers up until six to seven weeks of age. For people, lakes are a playground. For animals, lakes are habitat they depend on for survival."

Ultimately, Hanson and other loon biologists hope this incident will help raise awareness for boaters and other watersport enthusiasts' vital role in loon conservation. A complete list of loon-safe tips for boaters is available on VCE's website.

Property tax bills: You should have received your 2023 property tax bill no later than July 15. Please contact the Town Office, 802-878-4587, if you did not receive your tax bill by this date.

The first of four installments is due Tuesday, August 15. Payments will be considered timely if they are received by this date, have an August 15 postmark (postal, FedEX, or UPS), or are in the drop box located to the left of the Town Office door before the office opens at 8:30 AM on Wednesday, August 16. # More information on FEMA Individual Assistance

By Amy Grover, Bolton Town Clerk and Treasurer

For those that have private road damages that may inhibit access for emergency services, we would encourage the resident to register for FEMA Individual Assistance through https://www.disasterassistance.gov/ or https://www.fema.gov/disaster/4720, through the FEMA app, or by phone 1-800-621-FEMA (3362) or in person at the MARC locations or another location where FEMA is taking applications. Here is the language from the Individuals and Households Program and Policy Guide (pg.85):

"Home Repair Assistance FEMA may provide financial assistance to repair an owner-occupied primary residence, utilities, and residential infrastructure, including private access routes damaged as a result of a Presidentially-declared disaster up to the financial Housing Assistance maximum award. Home Repair Assistance is intended to make the damaged home safe, sanitary, or functional. It is not intended to return the home to its pre[1]disaster condition. Home Repair Assistance counts towards the financial Housing Assistance maximum award an applicant may receive (see Chapter 3, I)"

CRAV fundraising supports cannabis businesses affected by flooding

The Cannabis Retailers Association of Vermont (CRAV) announced a new effort to support the numerous cannabis businesses impacted by the recent flooding. Data is still being gathered but it's clear the cannabis industry suffered significant losses from the recent flooding. Retailers, cultivators, and manufacturers have all reported significant damage to their equipment, stores, and crops.

"The cannabis industry does not receive any support from the federal government so any business impacted by the recent storm relies on private funding to help them recover. This is in part why we are launching A Higher Calling, which is an effort to raise funds for those in our community who are suffering and trying to recover from the damaging floods," said Todd Bailey, executive Director of the Cannabis Retailers Association of Vermont.

A Higher Calling is currently a two-pronged effort to raise the much-needed resources. The cannabis community will be manufacturing a special pre-roll that will be sold at retailers around the state. Those pre-rolls will be available for nominal cost when a customer makes a $15 contribution to the effort. In September CRAV will also be hosting a two-day music festival by the same name. The bands will be announced soon but organizers were confident based on the likely performers that the draw would likely be between 1500-2000 people.

"We suffered significant losses from the floods but with guidance from the Cannabis Control Board, we were able to evacuate most of our inventory, but still sustained multiple thousands in lost product... we simply ran out of time to load the truck. The North Branch was cresting and we needed to drive to safety before we could save everything. We have received dozens of emails, calls, and texts from our customers, and friends and partners in the cannabis community, offering help... even when some are facing their own challenges and losses. That has been the silver lining... knowing we are part of a caring community that looks out after each other," said Lauren Andrews, owner of Capital Cannabis in Montpelier.

CRAV as well as businesses that were impacted by the flooding have been in regular contact with the Cannabis Control Board to ensure all these efforts are working within regulatory requirements. The cannabis industry is a highly regulated industry so there are numerous rules that must be followed in order to conduct these types of fundraisers.

"There's no shortage of cultivators, manufacturers, and retailers offering to help get our industry through this difficult time. The cannabis community is extremely tight knit, so when help is needed, you know people are going to step up," said Dusty Kenney, owner of Cambridge Cannabis Company.

You can learn more about the Higher Calling music festival at CRAV's website on its "events" page. At their site you will also find the COAs for the pre-rolls, which will be available soon.

$10,000 for Howard Center from Curling Challenge Fundraiser

Howard Center and the South Burlington Rotary Club are delighted to announce the results of the 11th Annual Curling Challenge fundraiser, held in March 2023. The Curling Challenge was made possible thanks to the shared vision and commitment of Howard Center, the South Burlington Rotary Club, Dragonheart Vermont, and the Green Mountain Curling Club. The event raised $10,000 for Howard Center, with over 30 teams of four on the ice at Cairns Arena to curl for a worthy cause. The funds raised were dedicated to Howard Center programs including crisis support, residential programs, specialized schools, street outreach initiatives, as well as substance use treatment and recovery. The funds will also be used to support basic needs, enrichment, and holiday activities for individuals and families. The Green Mountain Curling Club, with the assistance of the Rutland Rocks Curling Club, provided invaluable instruction and equipment for all 32 competing teams at Cairns Arena in S. Burlington. ### Cleaning up mold after a flood

From the VT Department of Health

Mold and mildew are general terms used to describe kinds of fungus. There are hundreds of different types of molds that vary in color and appearance — some molds are black in color, but there is no one specific "black mold." Mold is common in nature and can also be found indoors. Mold can grow on foods, building materials, upholstery, clothes, and other surfaces.

If your home or building has been flooded and you were not able to dry it out within 24-48 hours, assume you have mold

Mold and your health

How you may react to mold depends on several factors including the type of mold, the amount of mold, the amount of time you are exposed, and your overall health.

Exposure to mold can lead to asthma attacks, eye and skin irritation, and allergic reactions. You may have more severe reactions if you have mold allergies. If you have a weakened immune system or breathing problems, you may get a serious lung infection when you are around mold. Although rare, it is possible to get a respiratory fungal infection, which means the fungus grows on or in your body tissue.

Talk to your health care provider if you have health concerns or questions. Testing for mold

Testing for mold is not necessary or recommended. Understanding the results can be difficult because there are no standards to compare the results to. Test results cannot be used to say a building is "safe" or "unsafe." No matter how much or what kind of mold is in your home or building, the action steps to fix the problem are the same: dry it out and clean it up. Protect yourself from mold including masks (N-95), gloves, and goggles. Children, people with breathing problems, and people with weakened immune systems should not help clean up after a flood.

Protect yourself from mold by wearing protective clothing -

Use portable air cleaners with HEPA (high efficiency particulate air) filters to reduce your exposure to mold in the air. Learn how to select the right air cleaner for your home or building in the EPA's Guide to Air Cleaners in the Home (www.epa.gov/indoorair-quality-iaq/air-cleaners-and-air-filters-home).

Have your heating, ventilating, and air-conditioning (HVAC) system checked before you turn it on to prevent spreading mold throughout your home or building.

Fixing a mold problem

To fix a mold problem, you must completely dry out your home or building first. Mold will come back if your home or building is not completely dry. Open doors and windows. Use fans and dehumidifiers when electricity is safe.

Once dry and clean, remove mold by following these steps:

- Clean moldy items that do not absorb water (glass, plastic, marble, granite, ceramic tile, metal) by using soap and water. Surfaces in contact with floodwater should be disinfected after they are cleaned.
- Throw away and replace materials that easily absorb water (cushions, mattresses, drywall, carpet, insulation, and ceiling
- Wash clothes and other fabrics. Wash all clothes worn during the cleanup in hot water and detergent, and keep them separate from uncontaminated items.

Vacuum with a HEPA filter vacuum.

Hiring a contractor

Flooding can cause significant mold growth. If mold is covering more than 100 square feet, you will probably want to get help from a contractor that specializes in mold cleanup. As with any contractor, get references to assess the contractor's experience, past work success, and if other clients liked their work. Please note there are no federal or Vermont certifications or licenses for mold remediation.

A contractor is not needed for a small mold problem of less than 10 square feet. For areas between 10 and 100 square feet, use your judgment to decide.

No "black mold" species

No species of mold is named "black mold." Many kinds of mold may be black, and the color of mold does not describe what type it is or how hazardous it is. Stachybotrys chartarum (S. chartarum) is a mold species that often is incorrectly called "black mold." It has also been featured in news reports as more toxic than other molds. Currently, it is not known whether exposure to S. chartarum causes more illness than exposure to other mold species.

Renters and employees

If you are a renter or employee, talk with your landlord or employer about mold problems. If the problem is serious and conditions persist, renters may want to call their Town Health Officer (www.HealthVermont.gov/find-your-THO), and employees may wish to contact the Vermont Occupational Safety and Health Administration (VOSHA).

Health insurance affordability

From Isabel Dunkley, Office of the Health Care Advocate at Vermont Legal Aid

I am writing to you from the Office of the Health Care Advocate at Vermont Legal Aid.

The cost of health insurance is likely to go up in January for roughly 68,324 Vermonters who buy their insurance through Vermont Health Connect or from employers with under 100 employees. How much the price goes up will be decided by the Green Mountain Care Board after the rate review hearings in July. Blue Cross Blue Shield Vermont is asking to raise their premium prices an average of 15.5% for individuals and 14.5% for small businesses. MVP asks to raise their premium prices an average of 12.8% for individuals and 12.5% for small businesses.

All Vermonters have an opportunity to provide public comment to the Green Mountain Care Board about how the proposed rate increases would impact their businesses and their families.

Submit a public comment so your voice can be in this process: https://docs.google.com/forms/  $d/1XVcf2bm43S3k \dot{W}NVJkazb-rInEosyTV \dot{d}Qp0hB\_EsfR\_k/$ viewform.

The Office of the Health Care Advocate acts as the consumer voice in the rate review process. We represent the public in rate review hearings and advocate for affordability in our health care system. It's our responsibility to tell the Green Mountain Care Board how these proposed rate increases impact Vermonters and their families. To bring attention to these proposed rate increases, we are spreading the word about the public comment process. The Green Mountain Care Board is obligated by law to take public comments on proposed rate filings and take this testimony nto consideration during the rate review hearings.

If you need assistance submitting a public comment, or wants individual advice related to health insurance or access to care issues, contact the Office of the Health Care Advocate's HelpLine at 1-800-917-7787 or visit http://www.vtlawhelp.org/health.

Adolescent health myths

Recently, I have received a lot of questions from parents asking me whether something they heard about parenting a teenager is fact or fiction.

This week, let me do some truth-telling and myth-busting when it comes to parenting adolescents.

A longer timeline

First, adolescence is not just about being 13-19 years of age. It begins with the onset of puberty and can extend from age 8-9 years into the early 20s as the adolescent brain develops and tackles issues with judgement, critical thinking, and risk taking.

It's not personal

Second, if you think that your teenager's mission in life is to make your life as a parent miserable, think again. Their moods are not about you, but about hormonal changes that are forcing them to realize they will soon need to become more independent.

As a result, their unconditional love for you allows them to test that independence with those often unpredictable moods and behaviors that can make parenting challenging.

And, if you think teens can control their often-unpredictable mood swings, that's a myth too. In fact, understanding how tough this is for your teen, and talking with them about how you want to be as understanding as possible as a parent, may help reduce some of their moodiness.

Meet them where they're at

Third, it is also a myth that your teens do not want to spend

You just need to give them your time on their terms meaning, seek out things your teen likes to do, such as staying up later to join them for a late-night study snack or sitting down to watch what they are watching, or to ask about the video game they are playing and whether you can give it a try.

Lend a helping hand

Fourth, thinking that doing something special to help your teen will only make them less motivated to do things for themselves is also a myth. There's a big difference between nurturing and spoiling.

Surprising your teen with their favorite dinner or running errands for them when they are busy — and offering them your empathy, patience, and understanding — are great ways to enable them to do similarly for others.

Hopefully, tips like these will convince you that the most important myth to bust is that just because your teenager may be going through a tough stage of adolescence doesn't mean they don't love you and need you as much as they ever have!

Be there for them and offer the strong loving bonds you always have. You'll find your teens will offer that love back to you, not only during adolescence, but for the rest of their lives.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

Flood relief update: neighbors helping neighbors

By Kesha Ram Hinsdale,

State Senator, Chittenden-Southeast Senate District

Dear Neighbors,

While this is a time of great loss and despair, there are also incredible moments of hope and resilience. If you could see my inbox, you would see the greatness of our state. Young people sending money from a lemonade stand on Brewer Parkway. A couple driving tandem to Londonderry for five hours through countless detours to deliver supplies. Communities and families expressing deep gratitude to be remembered and given immediate relief in all pockets of the state.

This has given rise to our new motto as the Queen City Saints: The challenge is great, but Vermonters are greater.

As we are all coming to terms with, especially with continual downpours this week, this will be a long road to recovery. In that vein, our small group that had previously existed to provide turkeys to families on Thanksgiving has touched on a deep desire for neighbors to help neighbors as directly as possible. The Queen City Saints sat down to look at what we have accomplished with you all in the last week, and it is undeniable that there is an impact worth continuing.

Thanks to you, we have raised nearly $25,000 from over 200 donors. We have held numerous supply drives and, combined with purchases from your donations, have made about 40 volunteer trips to deliver dehumidifiers, generators, shop vacs, fans, shovels, rakes, and other high-need, high-value clean-up supplies to Barre, Cambridge, Hardwick, Johnson, Londonderry (and 16 surrounding towns), Ludlow, Montpelier, the Northeast Kingdom, Rutland, and the Upper Valley. We have helped secure generous discounts and in-kind donations from Lowes in Essex and South Burlington, Pet Food Warehouse, Nancy Jenkins Real Estate, UHaul, Home Depot, Twincraft Soap, Sierra Trading

Post, JeriHill Ace Hardware, Dealer.com, Seventh Generation,

We hope to remain a neighbor-to-neighbor, volunteer run effort that can move nimbly and quickly to fill gaps in our hardhit communities. So we are offering these continued actions that can have a significant and swift impact for your consideration:

funds to increase purchasing power for fulfilling th wishlists of impacted communities. These are not tax deductible donations. They help us meet tangible needs with supplies that can save property, homes, and lives. You can donate via Venmo (@QueenCitySaints) or ask us about other donation options.

- 2. Donate supplies and hold your own donation drives using the updated list of needed supplies being requested by impacted communities on the "Queen City Saints" Facebook page. The top items currently being requested are dehumidifiers, generators, plastic bins, mold inhibitors, extension cords, toiletries, PPE, yard tools, and wheelbarrows. You can gather supplies in your neighborhood or workplace and bring them to one of our ongoing drop off locations: Charlotte Library, Essex Library (small items), or Lyric Theatre. Please only gather and bring new, sealed, or very gently used items that are being requested, as the collection of most personal and household items will need to wait until after the clean-up phase.
- 3. Fill out this form to become a volunteer driver. In addition to contact information, it includes questions that help us know what your vehicle can transport, when you are able to make trips, how far you're able to go, etc.: Volunteer Driver Form, online at https://docs.google.com/ forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSf0u6fIY7I7FKXdGqgGQE-vMP_ M7WtD2MuYLhF8WGXn3lvmTA/viewform
- 4. Look out for updates on more of our supply drives in a parking lot near you!
- 5. Sign up at the state volunteer website for all other opportunities to help with recovery: https://www.vermont.gov/ volunteer. We are going to maintain our focus on supply delivery

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Flood — reporting damages, and more

To the Editor,

First, I'm compelled to make a small dent here with so many Thank You's swirling through my mind!

Looking around the property on the day after the flood, the thought "Oh, how I wish a dumpster would just show up" popped into my head... and on the next day, one did! Thank you, Town of Cambridge, for providing the one at the Town Garage! Thank you, Cambridge Fire Department, for pumping out the crawlspace so we could even get to all the debris!

And thank you to what seems like Everybody-In-Town for all your thoughts, compassion, offers of help, checking on everyone here in "the lowlands," etc. (I don't know where to begin naming names!) However cliché it may sound, we truly do live in such an amazing community.

One another note, Seth Jensen (at LCPC) is strongly encouraging everyone (residential and business) to report their damages by completing VT211's online survey. As he puts it, "Every report gets us closer to a declaration that may include individual assistance."

It's quite easy and fast, mostly clicking through a lot of yes/ no questions plus a few other details. You need to answer every question, and there's an option for sending updated information

Finally (for now!), for those curious about this: our home elevation worked out very well with this event. The main problems we're having from this flood are due to a few follow-up tasks we didn't get to after the elevation (that's going to change!) There's still a lot to deal with, but our situation is a walk in the park in comparison to so many.

My heart goes out to my neighbors and friends here and in Cambridge Village. We will get through this.

only. We do not want to impede or duplicate other critical efforts, though we are happy to help you connect to other efforts.

Once again, all efforts to help are needed and important. We have found a way for those of us who are largely unaffected to help, whatever our ability, our age, or our financial situation. It will take all of us doing our small part, and we are honored to be working alongside you to have a big impact. Thank you so much — Kesha and the Queen City Saints Team

Huge shout out to first responders

To the Editor,

These past few days have been tumultuous for our two villages and the town. Through it all, our fire department, rescue squad, and the teams from North Carolina have done an amazing job working to keep us safe. The very knowledgeable Trevor Welch of the Jeff Village Water Department has been very helpful too. I'm sure there are others whom I haven't listed here. To all of you thank you! for all that you have done to keep everyone safe!

Jan Sander Jeffersonville

Thank you to the Andersons and Three Mountain Roofing

To the Editor,

to Alisa and Lee Anderson who have generously offered their trucks and trailers to pick up people's wet and ruined belongings. The Town of Cambridge is picking up the tonnage fee at Hyde Park transfer station but the Andersons gave of their time, their equipment, and paid for the fuel themselves...

If you see them around town, please say thank you.

Peter Ingvoldstad Jeffersonville

Thanks for help with CHS's flooded basement

To the Editor,

The Cambridge Historical Society (CHS) would like to give a special thank you to Rick, Santha, Gavin and Aidan Fletcher, the Cambridge Fire Department and the Town road crew for their help in pumping flood waters out of the Warner Lodge basement and for moving our historical collection stored there to the main

This is a wonderful example of community members helping

Covenant Community Church — "Come As You Are!" What is the Covenant? The unique character of the Covenant is expressed in the design of the logo — people united in Christ, people serving people in God's name, and people bringing people to Christ. The basis of the design is symbolic of four people facing north, south, east, and west. Note that each one's arms are outstretched, indicating the church's outreach in mission and service to the world. The four are part of the whole, yet their hands do not touch, symbolizing their unity in the freedom and evangelical warmth that characterizes the Covenant. The geometric arrangement of the four figures results in a cross-like pattern, representative of the center of our faith. The center circle symbolizes the unity and the bond of fellowship which we call "the Covenant."

The Bryan Gallery in Jeffersonville hopes everyone is doing well and did not experience any damage from the July flooding. The Gallery did take on water in the basement, but thankfully our pump was able to keep the water impact to a minimum. On behalf of all of us at the Bryan Memorial Gallery, a big thank you to the volunteers that spent a day cleaning out a lot of sodden items from our basement! After accumulating a pretty impressive pile outside the gallery, our dumpster didn't show up and we were all pretty spent. But out of the blue several people from CCC came over on their own along with Three Mountain and their trucks and crew and cleaned everything up in a hurry. A special thanks to all of you; you made a huge difference as you continue to do around town. Everyone's generosity is the shining light in all of this. THANK YOU! We are certainly counting our blessings no water made its way into our exhibition space or vaults.

We are open to the public as a means for people to escape the stresses of the flooding and provide a sense of normality to everyone. Slow Journey at the Emile A. Gruppe Gallery, a collection of acrylic and watercolor paintings by Gretchen Alexander. "Journey" is often used as a metaphor for life experience a collection of the moments that make up one's past, present, and future. Through her paintings, Alexander ponders the idea that through slowing down to observe an individual moment, it is possible to expand one's experience beyond the horizon of a human lifespan: the river that has been etching its initials into the bedrock for thousands of years and will for thousands more; the tree that germinated long before you were born and will still be standing when you return to the earth... growth and change that occurs around us in imperceptible slowness to our awareness, and yet is present, nonetheless. Alexander's work varies from impressionistic to conceptual and draws heavily on her long career as a river ecologist, especially apparent in a series of paintings about river processes that bridge her love of art and natural science. Her landscapes are vivid interpretations of natural subjects chosen for their great significance in her own personal journey. The show hangs through Sunday, August 6 at the Emile A. Gruppe Gallery, 22 Barber Farm Rd., Jericho. For more information contact 802-899-3211 or www.emilegruppegallery.

I am feeling blue

By Bernie Paquette

Summer in Vermont is the best cure for the earlier seasons when the sun was exhibiting chemiluminescence. (Chemiluminescence is the emission of light during a chemical reaction, which does not produce significant quantities of heat.)

Summer has arrived in Vermont. Forecasts float up to eighty and flirt with ninety degrees — for Vermonters that is a heat wave that melts snow shovels, and sheds dull lackluster woolens, mud boots, and snow tires.

Below seventy degrees I chill, below fifty degrees I hibernate; in Vermont winters my blood freezes, my mind atrophies. Summer heat revives and inspires me.

So you ask, why am I feeling blue now in the midst of heat and the luscious greens (there are countless shades of greens in Vermont in summer) that I love.

I am blue with joy over the blue flower, chicory (Cichorium intybus). Also known as blue daisy, blue dandelion, blue sailors, blue weed, bunk, coffee weed, cornflower, horseweed, ragged sailors, succor, wild bachelor's button, and wild endive. Chickory's native range is Eurasia. It now grows throughout North America and is commonly seen along Vermont roadsides and other untamed areas.

How many flowers boast such innocent periwinkle-blue eyes, thrive in wastelands, and rebound quickly after the highway department mows them down? These plants with their wiry stems bear no resemblance to feeling blue. They are tough, hardy, brilliantly beautiful uplifting flowers.

"Before coffee was introduced in Europe, people drank chicory-root infusions much as they do espresso today." — per the Brooklyn Botanical Garden

Finches including goldfinches love the seeds from chicory.

The plant has been used as a medicinal as well as a forage crop.

For me, chicory brightens my days as it blooms from July to October — the summer months when I too am blue with

Luna

By Sue Kusserow

happiness.

Special to the Mountain Gazette

Well, Luna is gone. For those of you with a small, smiling, and exuberant pup who knew all the family tricks, your eulogy may be similar to mine: begging for food... anything of any kind. But we also know the amount of love that has been given to each dog, so they are the same happy dogs, "under the skin."

Luna, named for the color of a full summer moon, has been the family dog for 13 years... teaching us how to throw sticks (not too far, please). She plunges after them, as if training for the next doggie Olympics. She also showed us how to grab any stick floating through the fields of cattails and pond lilies and bunches of discarded, moldy dead maple leaves.

Her first photo shows a little yellow pup, proudly sitting in a broken old rocking chair. But it still had enough sway to it. Oops! There she goes — falling again! — rolling in the fresh wet grass of our Underhill field.

One of her last photos was of a more sedate "Luna" but still able to spring up for another chase to catch an errant branch floating in the pond.

Her next favorite spot (besides a corner on the shady porch) was another pond, sheltered, and cooled by trees and small waterfalls. It was wet and soothing and therefore something to be investigated. Since we were not brave enough to practice our own doggie paddles, Luna examined each rock with her nose and went doggie swimming with her feet.

When we got home, she climbed out of the car and spread herself on the cool garage cement floor; her eyes closed and she is again chasing down the waterfall, into a deep pool that feels just right. I give her a sedative which lets her relax... and though I wish for Just One More Day with Luna, I knew this day that she has given me, at this moment, all the days she has left to give. Just one more day... please! I know I have watched for this day of death, but at this moment she has given me all the days I am allotted, even though my tears say... just one more day!

Reimagining forest management By Ethan Tapper Chittenden County Forester

When I walk in the woods with people, I often invite them to reimagine the forest. Whether you are a forester or a forest-lover, we all tend to focus on trees. While there is no question that trees are a vital component of forests, they aren't everything. Reimagining forests means broadening our definition of "the forest" from "a bunch of trees" to a dynamic and diverse community of trees, plants, animals, insects, fungi, and more.

When we allow ourselves to reimagine the forest, we can see that the way that the trees in a forest are growing is as vital as the trees themselves. We can see the importance of the composition (different species of trees) and structure (different sizes and ages of trees) of the trees in the forest, the importance of having some big trees (including big trees which are declining, dying, hollow and full of cavities), dead-standing trees ("snags"), lots of dead wood on the forest floor and healthy soils. Each of these conditions is vital to the function of the forest community, its resilience and adaptability, the natural processes that make it work, and the way that it changes over time. Each is a condition to which the tens of thousands of species that comprise the reimagined forest have adapted to for millennia, and each is underrepresented in our modern forests.

As we reimagine what forests are, we also need to reimagine what it means to take care of them. Reimagining forest management means understanding that my job as a forester is to care for the reimagined forest in its entirety — not just its trees. My success should be measured not by my ability to keep every tree in the forest alive, but by my ability to support and enrich the forest community. While forest management includes many different tools and techniques, one of the most powerful ways I can help the reimagined forest recover from the wounds of the past, endure the challenges of the present, and move into an uncertain future is through the thoughtful and strategic cutting of trees.

True-blue chicory, a tough perennial "weed" native to Eurasia that now grows all over Vermont along roadsides.

If we think of forests as "a bunch of trees," the cutting of the tree is a loss. If we reimagine forests, we can see that the cutting of a tree — as part of a holistic forest management approach — can be as profound a gift to the forest as its life. Following forest management, gaps in the forest's canopy will become foraging habitat for birds and bats; the understory will bloom with a diverse mix of plants, shrubs and young trees; the trees and treetops on the forest floor will become rich communities of mosses, invertebrates and fungi, will benefit soil hydrology, and help build richer soils. In the reimagined forest, the death of trees can help young forests become more like old growth forests, can help create habitat for species which are declining and under threat, and can help us actively respond to the many threats that our forests face.

If we reimagine forest management as a means to care for this reimagined forest (as it is often applied in Vermont today), the fact that forest management can be commercial is one of its greatest assets and the mills, markets, foresters, loggers, and truckers that make commercial forest management possible are vital to forests' biodiversity, their integrity, their resilience. Forest management is the only form of ecosystem restoration that can pay for itself and can even generate income that landowners can use to pay property taxes and other costs associated with keeping forests intact and healthy. As such, it can be applied on a much larger scale than any other form of restoration. In a world of non-local, non-renewable resources that cause harm to peoples and ecosystems across the globe, forest management is also the only form of ecosystem restoration that generates local, renewable resources.

Reimagining forests and forest management means forming a more holistic and expansive vision of what forests are and what it means to truly care for them. Doing what is necessary to protect forests, and all their pieces and parts, will often require us to make compromises as bittersweet as cutting a tree to enrich a reimagined forest.

Ethan Tapper is the Chittenden County Forester for the VT Department of Forests, Parks and Recreation.

My experience as patient and observer

By Bill Schubart

I've written much about the state of healthcare in the nation and here in Vermont. As a former chair of then-Fletcher Allen Health Care some 20 years ago, a Vermont resident, and part of Vermont's aging demographic, I want for us all to have the best possible care at a price the wide economic spectrum of Vermonters can afford, or — as I believe is long overdue government consensus that, in the richest country in the world, healthcare becomes a human right.

Today, we have a network of nonprofit hospitals in the state that vary widely in timely access and cost. Many needy Vermonters have despaired of getting the health services they need and simply age in place, while others are resigned to long waits — or even simply do without.

As a former hospital chair and retired businessman, I'm a person of "privilege." I did not earn my retirement security "the old fashioned way," by inheriting it, but instead earned it over the course of co-starting and running several businesses. I'm not in the one or two percent but I am in the 60th percentile for retirement income and so consider myself both lucky and privileged.

When I learned recently that I would need minor but invasive "transcatheter aortic valve replacement (TAVR)" heart surgery to live some more years, I was able to schedule it. The cost was largely paid by Medicare and I was able to meet the copay requirements, which were reasonable. My adult children, struggling to remember what the TAVR acronym stood for, simply said, "Dad's having "trans-something surgery," confusing many who know me.

Had I been among the 36% of Vermonters who are, by the Commonwealth Fund's definition "underinsured," I would have either had to forgo treatment, work out a "charity case" agreement with the hospital, or get treatment and declare medical bankruptcy. Vermont's nonprofit hospitals are required to treat all who show up in need.

A distant family member, a healthcare professional who was treated recently at UVM Medical Center, had to negotiate a repayment agreement, as he was between insurance plans. He now pays $950 a month for his new policy alongside his monthly debt-reduction payment to the hospital, or $22,000 a year.

I have another family member in New York whose health insurance costs $4000 a month to cover him, his wife, and child. $48,000 a year is 64% of the median household income of New Yorkers.

I could go on.

But I set out to write about how excellent the care I received at UVM Medical Center was.

I came in at 6:30 AM on a Friday and went home the following day at noon. The procedure, during which I was fully awake though given pain killers, lasted some 75 minutes. I spent four hours in recovery and then an overnight for observation.

During that time, the medical team that took care of me was humane, focused, and attentive. My doctor thoroughly explained the risks of the procedure, what could go wrong (but didn't) and what my recovery would be like. He was precise and accurate on all counts. The lion's share of my care was provided by attentive nurses, who not only focused on my physical care but on my mental comfort and sense of security

I met and got to know some 15 LPNs, RNs, nursing assistants, and service staff. We had wonderful, unrushed conversations, both about my recovery and the current state of healthcare. I was surprised at the depth of concern many had about the failures of the healthcare system itself. Several had heard about and related personally to the term "moral injury," a situation in which the reasons that a person commits to being a healthcare provider (or educator) come into eventual conflict with the systemic practice of the institution they work for. Others spoke of "compassion

Many of the staff openly expressed their concern not for the quality of healthcare but for its exclusionary economics. Their perceptions were informed by their own experience with patients and reflected how much they had thought about the larger issues beyond their commitment to excellent patient care. I learned a great deal from these conversations which, sadly, confirmed some of my own fears, not about the quality of care at our hospitals but rather about economic and timely access to it.

In summary, my experience was extraordinary. It lifted my heart — literally and spiritually — to be among such committed professionals. I felt better within two days of my treatment and feel better every day. In the 1950s when I was a child, my recently diagnosed condition would have killed me within a few years. So much progress has been made in the intervening years.

Credit where credit is due. We have a cadre of professional and committed caregivers in Vermont in our various practices, clinics, and hospitals. Medicine, like life, is both science and art, and both are fallible. Our judgments must be relevant to reality. What we need at this point is an institutional and regulatory framework that makes our healthcare infrastructure available to all Vermonters by lowering (or largely eliminating) the appalling cost and the severe delays. Early diagnosis and treatment are the standard for quality healthcare.

Again, thank you to the team of committed medical professionals at UVM Medical Center who cared for me. I will always remember the quality of your care but will also persist in my ongoing efforts to ensure that the quality you provided me is available to all my family, friends, and neighbors.

Should the town paint fog lines on Browns Trace

By Bernie Paquette, Jericho

Should the town paint fog lines on Browns Trace?

- 1. Most if not all residents of Jericho would like our streets to
- 2. Traffic as well as travel above if not well above the speed limit has appeared to increase over the last few years. *3. Fog Lines ("perspective" narrowing of streets) is known to
- be an effective method of slowing traffic. 4. I recall that Jericho has the equipment to do the fog line
- 5. Jericho has (I believe) the authority to paint fog lines on town roads.
- 6. No one measure by itself will fully address unsafe speeds. 7. As more homes are added to Jericho, traffic will likely
- 8. As more homes are added to Jericho, more families with young children will likely populate the town and be utilizing the sidewalks and road crossings.
- ***9. Though speed signs are a reminder or cue, they are few and spaced apart, whereas fog lines with the perspective of a narrowed street are ongoing and a constant cue to maintain a slower speed than that of a road without fog lines.
- 10. Narrowing residential streets can be one tool of many effective measures to consider in order to strive to reduce speeds, improve pedestrian and bicycle safety, and improve the livability of residential streets as part of a program of traffic calming

11. Paint is cheaper and less offensive than traffic fines.

Read my revised and edited post at https://jerichovermont. blogspot.com/2023/07/will-iericho-narrow-lanes-for-road.html (a bit tongue in cheek, but with serious intent and information).

If we are to have safe streets, we need to change our thinking as we drive. Perhaps a visual cue such as reduced lane width via painted fog lines ("perspective" narrowing of streets) might help provide that cue.

Saturday 9:00 AM – 3:00 PM; Sunday/Monday closed.

Heartfelt gratitude to all who have pitched in to get us up and safely running; community is everything and we are so fortunate to be among such kind, generous and skilled people. You are appreciated!

Our 85 year-old building is Vermont Strong!

As you might know, the flood waters came up to the Varnum's bottom step of the porch. What you may not know is that only our small basement, which is located under the oldest section was flooded just below the casement windows.

The good and not-so-good news: the good news is that the library didn't store anything of value in the basement. The notso-good news is that our furnace and new HVAC system have been under water. As of June 17, the water table had dropped, which means the basement is drying up and the electricity can be turned back on.

Library director Auroa Rivers, her staff, VML board members and CCLA would like to thank the many people who came to help us this past week. Our thanks go to:

- 802 Electric owner Dustin Tilton and his team for coming so quickly, and their continued diligence in checking on the building;
  - North Carolina Rescue for assessing the building;
- Cambridge Fire Department for pumping out the initial flood
- Corse Fuels Griffin Corse and his team for pumping out more water, assessing the furnace and removing the oil tank;
- Krista and Nick Huling for help in keeping the sump pump
- Bryan Memorial Art Gallery for being a supportive neighbor; Selectboard members Courtney Leitz, Jeff Coslett, and Cody Marsh for their assistance.

Thank you to the numerous neighbors and patrons who have come to the library to check on the library and staff wellbeing.

We are grateful for the VML board and CCLA members that have shown up to help and be supportive. We are most grateful to our new president Carol Plante for her leadership and attention to detail in making sure that the library is safe and looked after.

125 years ago, in 1898, the Crescendo Club was formed as a branch of the Vermont Federation of Women's Clubs. Their purpose was, and still is, to keep books available to the public free of charge.

In 1927, 85 years ago, Mrs. Harvey Varnum left her home on Main Street to the Crescendo Club to be used as a library and community center.

From all of us at the Varnum Memorial Library — Vermont

All Johnson Public Library users will be honored and welcomed at the Varnum while the JPL rebuilds to the community hub it is. JPL patrons can use their accounts at the Varnum and we will do all Inter-Library requests as Johnson patrons are accustomed to. We are all in support of each other and will continue to pull

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS

Seeking substitute volunteer Meals on Wheels drivers

Central Vermont Council on Aging (CVCOA) is extremely grateful for all the volunteers who have stepped up to assist with flood recovery and clean up. It's truly inspiring to see the community come together to address this challenge!

For those volunteers who are looking for a way to continue supporting the community, please consider becoming a substitute volunteer driver for Meals on Wheels. Senior centers and meal sites across Central Vermont are in need of substitute drivers, a need that has been exacerbated by the recent flooding and recovery efforts.

Most Meals on Wheels sites across the region need one or more volunteers to fill in for drivers who are out of town, in need of a break, or away from their regular route for a variety of reasons. Routes typically take less than an hour and a half to complete and can make your day!

For more information, contact AmeriCorps Seniors Volunteer Coordinator Anne Greshin (agreshin@cvcoa.org or 802-241-4840).

Funding for Browns River watershed protection

From the Westford Conservation Commission

The Westford Conservation Commission would like to inform you of this great opportunity from the Winooski Natural Resource Conservation District:

The headwaters of the Browns River have been identified by Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) as a source watershed protection area. The Winooski Natural Resource Conservation District (WNRCD) is interested in facilitating technical and financial assistance to farmers and forest landowners in these areas to implement best management practices on the land.

Best management practices include those that promote soil health, reduce soil erosion, and reduce nutrient runoff. These practices can be applied on any size land parcel, whether it be a working farm, working forest, or simply private property.

Furthermore, if you are a landowner within the headwaters of the Browns River watershed you may be eligible to receive increased funding to implement conservation practices on your land!

The Westford Conservation Commission has had some great conversations with the WNRCD and would be happy to assist in any way we can. This program will benefit the Browns River Watershed ecosystems and your drinking water!

Please contact us, the WCC at westfordcc@googlegroups.com if you have questions about this program. You can also contact the WNRCD at info@winooskinrcd.org for more information on the full list of what practices are covered under this initiative and determine if you would be a good fit for this program.

We hope you will consider getting involved!

Donate used eyeglasses and hearing aids for recycling

The Jericho-Underhill Lions Club have placed collection boxes in the Westford Library and the Westford Town Clerk's Office. The collection boxes are there for anyone that has used eyeglasses and used hearing aids, and wishes to donate them for recycling. All you need to do is deposit them in the boxes and the Jericho-Underhill Lion's Club will take care of it from there.

Caution in using flooded garlic

Information about flooded garlic from Vern Grubinger, UVM Extension, and Tucker Diego, Vermont Agency of Agriculture:

Garlic (including seed garlic) that was in floodwater is considered adulterated and cannot be sold for human food. This applies to commercial operations or anyone distributing, bartering, or donating food.

If the garlic is for personal consumption ONLY, then you, as the gardener, may use your own judgment. It is still strongly recommended that flooded seed garlic not be used due to the risk of pathogen infiltration into the tissue. Curing may not completely eliminate pathogens that may be present.

It's always better to be safe. Floodwaters may contain many different contaminants, each of which behaves slightly differently (bacteria, parasites, heavy metals, chemicals, etc.).

Seeking host families for exchange students

Would you like to learn about a new culture or teach your children about another culture? One of the best ways to learn a culture is to immerse yourself into that culture. If you don't have time to travel, you might consider another option: Exchange!

Bringing an international exchange student into your home will teach your family many new things including empathy for different people and cultures. They will also make a life-long friend. Click the link below and take a look at our students in need of a host family for the upcoming school year. Would you make one of them a part of your family? Contact Emily, epaula@flag-intl.org for more information, or go online to http://www.flag-intl.org/search.

Here are descriptions of two of the students we're seeking host

Anna is a kind girl from Germany who loves basketball, yoga, and hiking. She's an excellent student. In her free time, she also enjoys volunteering, drawing, baking, playing board games, and traveling with her family. Anna is described as openminded, curious, and mature. She considers herself to be reliable, friendly, and helpful. While in the U.S., she is looking forward to experiencing the American way of life, culture, traditions, and learning about American history. Anna cannot wait to meet her future host family!

Krystof is a friendly boy from the Czech Republic who loves mountain biking, skiing, and going to the gym. In his free time, he also enjoys playing guitar and piano, outdoor activities, and spending time with friends and family. Krystof is described as determined, extroverted, and mature. He considers himself to be respectful, helpful, and funny. While on exchange in the U.S., he is excited to become more independent, learn about American culture, and try new activities.

United Way volunteer opportunities

GET CONNECTED TO VOLUNTEERING — United Way's Volunteer Connection site is set up to help connect agencies and volunteers. Agencies are working hard to navigate volunteering during this time, but opportunities are increasing. Go online to the Volunteer Connection (https://unitedwaynwvt.galaxydigital.com/) to learn more about these and other opportunities.

FLOOD RECOVERY — The State of Vermont has asked that people interested in volunteering register at http://vermont.gov/volunteer. Volunteer needs in the wake of the storm are evolving and we know the need will be great and ongoing. The state will connect volunteers who register to local United Ways to coordinate responders, so volunteers do not endanger themselves and first responders. Here's a link to a to more information about United Way's Flood Response: https://unitedwaynwvt.org/flood-response/.

BACK TO SCHOOL — COTS is planning a Back-to-School event on Saturday, August 5 to help children experiencing homelessness or economic insecurity get ready for school. Volunteers are needed at their North Avenue offices in Burlington on August 4th and 5th to help make this event a success. We need all hands-on deck! Last year we saw around 300 family members, and we are expecting 500 this year. To apply and for more information or questions, contact Romy, romy@cotsonline.

org. PICNIC! — Champlain Housing Trust is hosting its Members' Day Picnic at North Beach in Burlington with free food, music, and kid-friendly activities. ### OBITUARIES

Dr. Elliot Danforth, Jr., MD of Underhill, VT passed away on Thursday, March 30, 2023 at the McClure Miller Respite House, Colchester, VT at the age of 89. He is survived by his wife of 64 years, Joan Carolyn Danforth (née Garrett); three children: Kimberly Helen Danforth, Noel Danforth, and Peter Elliot Danforth; and three grandchildren: Margot Ellen Danforth Kimmel, Sylvia Otille Danforth Kimmel, and Rhys Lawson Danforth. Born on October 21, 1933 into a medical family, Elliot and his three brothers Nicholas (deceased), Thomas, and Edward enjoyed active childhoods in the Village of Sidney, NY where their father, Elliot Danforth, Sr. MD, and mother, Ellen Danforth, RN, kept a well-respected family practice. Elliot attended Dartmouth College (class of 1956), followed by a graduate degree in biochemistry at Ohio State University (1958) where he participated in groundbreaking techniques for measuring hormones to diagnose endocrine disorders, an experience that ignited his lifelong passion for research. Elliot attended Albany Medical College (1962) and residencies in internal medicine at Dartmouth Medical School and affiliated hospitals where he served as chief medical resident. Called to military duty in 1966, Elliot served as Captain in the U.S. Army Medical Corps at Walter Reed Army Hospital and its Institute of Research, where his interest in endocrinology and metabolism continued to develop, leading him to join the faculty at the University of Vermont (UVM, Burlington, VT) College of Medicine. During his 23-year tenure at UVM, Elliot made major contributions to our understanding of how energy expenditure is regulated in humans. He directed UVM's Clinical Research Center, acted as Chief of Endocrinology, Metabolism and Nutrition, and was a principal investigator at the Sims Obesity/Nutrition Research Center. Elliot's unique study in association with Ethan Sims, MD, and Edward Horton, MD, known as the "Vermont Studies of Obesity," remains widely cited today. Retiring as Professor Emeritus, Elliot continued his internationally recognized work in metabolic diseases and thyroid hormones, becoming Executive Director of the Cardiovascular & Metabolic Research Division of Lederle Laboratories, followed by consultancies in the pharmaceutical industry and National Institutes of Health. Elliot is the author of 200+ scientific papers, chapters, and other publications, leaving an enduring legacy in the areas of nutrition, thyroid metabolism, diabetes, and obesity. Elliot was a devoted and loving husband, supporting Joan's artistic career. He helped create Joan's pottery studio, built frames and displays for her artwork, and accompanied her on workshops and retreats across New England. Together, they traveled broadly, enjoying sabbatical years in Geneva and Lausanne, Switzerland and stays in Phoenix, AZ where Elliot undertook pivotal studies of diabetes and obesity at the NIH Clinical Research Center. An avid fisherman, backpacker, and skier, Elliot nurtured an abiding passion for the outdoors. As a child and young man, he cherished summers spent on his grandmother's farm in Middleburgh, NY, at boys' camps in the Adirondacks, and at his parents' fishing camp on Bass Lake in Ontario. Later, he shared these passions with his family, organizing week-long backpacking trips with his wife and three children, taking them "brooking" across Vermont in search of secluded swimming holes, and teaching them how to fish and ski, among countless life skills. Elliot's contagious zest for science and life is sure to live on in those he touched — from his devoted colleagues, adoring fellows, and grateful patients to his cherished friends and family who will forever hold the ardor of his love.

Roger Allen Lawrence (Hodgie), 62, of Winooski, VT passed away on Wednesday, July 5, 2023 at the McClure Miller Respite House, Colchester, VT. He fought a long, courageous battle with cancer. On August 28, 1960 he was born in Burlington, VT, the son of Richard and Nellie Lawrence of Charlotte, VT. Roger worked with a special friend, Ed Lafountain, for many years, logging and helping him with his goat farm in Enosburg, VT. He also worked for Al's French Fries (South Burlington, VT) for over 10 years, sometimes with his brother Jimmy. He made very special friends at Al's. He enjoyed hunting and fishing with family and friends. He loved playing horseshoes and building bird houses with faces on them, made from knot holes he found on trees while logging with Ed. He loved animals and had many pets through the years. A special thank-you to his cousin Dave Cook and friend John Curtis for all the times they took him out for a ride or to go fishing while he was fighting his battle. Roger leaves behind his daughters Tanya Lawrences Francine's and her wife Chasedi of Tupper Lake, NY; Delfina and Kyle Dinsmore of Ticonderoga, NY; three grandchildren: Aliyah Lawrence, and Bailey and Riley Dinsmore; sisters Phyllis Jacques of Burlington, VT, Debra Kneen (John) of Grand Isle, VT, Vanessa Fleming (Bob) of Milton, VT, and Yvonne Rand (Mark) of Lewis, NY; a brother, Gary Lawrence of Burlington, VT; as well as several nieces and nephews. Roger was predeceased by his parents Richard and Nellie Lawrence, sister Sharon Aiken, and brothers Rickey, David, and Jimmy Lawrence. A celebration of life will be held for Roger and his brother David at the Corner Stone Church, Milton, VT on Saturday, August 19, 2023, 1:00 - 5:00 PM. Burial will be at the Grand View Cemetery in Charlotte, VT after the celebration of life

Nicole Michele Killian of Richmond, VT was born November 25, 1994 in Burlington, VT, to parents Michael and Eveline Killian. The family grew to include Erik and Elise. Nicole was a high-energy child and a driven and accomplished woman. She graduated from Mount Mansfield High School in Jericho,

VT in 2012 — a year early where she excelled in academics, music, and sports. Nicole then attended the University of Vermont, where she received her bachelor's of science in nursing in 2016 and, later, her doctorate in nursing as a Nurse Practitioner (NP) from New York University in May 2022, specializations in acute care and palliative Nicole worked care. tirelessly while living in and between Brooklyn and Richmond, VT. Nicole was an RN at Dartmouth, NH, an emergency room (ER) nurse at the University of Vermont Medical Center in Burlington, an ER Nurse Practicioner at the Champlain Valley Physicians Hospital in Plattsburgh, NY, an ER nurse at the New York Presbyterian Hospital in Manhattan, NY, and a Concierge Urgent Care/Emergency Advanced Care Provider at Sollis Health in Manhattan. She remained actively working throughout the COVID pandemic to serve communities in need as an essential worker. Nicole also volunteered in her "spare time" and worked for many years as an advanced EMT at Richmond Rescue, including serving as vice president, then president, of the organization. She performed as a nurse in Tanzania and Guatemala and for UVM Medical Center as a member of the emergency response team for SANE (sexual assault nurse examiner). During her career, she touched many hearts and many lives, while making tough decisions and forming impactful relationships. Nicole pursued her personal life with the same energy and zest as her professional life. Her list of interests included backcountry skiing, mountain climbing, rock climbing, mountain biking and endurance running. Her truest passion was travel with friends and family. Nicole's adventures spanned the globe, from hiking a volcano in Guatemala to biking the length of the Netherlands to section-hiking the Long Trail and horseback riding in Nicaragua and climbing through ice caves in Iceland. She ran in marathons in Vermont and New York City and in adventure runs in Montana with her siblings. Her constant adventures capture her spirit and essence as a woman who could do anything anywhere. Nicole left us on July 10, 2023, while doing what she loved to do most — a technically challenging hike in British Columbia on Black Tusk, a mountain near Whistler. She was 28. She approached her work and relationships with a compassionate and sensitive heart. She was independent, generous, charismatic, openhearted, fearless, and a good listener. She lived in rarified air and was patient with the mere mortals who surrounded her in daily life. She is survived by her parents Michael Killian and Eveline Habermann; siblings Erik and Elise; and trusty canine companion, Moose. Come help us celebrate Nicole at the Timberline Lodge at Bolton Valley Ski Resort on Sunday, August 6, anytime between 2:00 – 6:00 PM. Guests are encouraged to wear hiking boots in honor of Nicole. In lieu of flowers, consider a remembrance by donation to the Whistler Search and Rescue Society (whistlersar.com/donate/) who bravely assisted.

Seeking substitute volunteer Meals on Wheels drivers

Central Vermont Council on Aging (CVCOA) is extremely grateful for all the volunteers who have stepped up to assist with flood recovery and clean up. It's truly inspiring to see the community come together to address this challenge!

For those volunteers who are looking for a way to continue supporting the community, please consider becoming a substitute volunteer driver for Meals on Wheels. Senior centers and meal sites across Central Vermont are in need of substitute drivers, a need that has been exacerbated by the recent flooding and recovery efforts.

Most Meals on Wheels sites across the region need one or more volunteers to fill in for drivers who are out of town, in need of a break, or away from their regular route for a variety of reasons. Routes typically take less than an hour and a half to complete and can make your day!

For more information, contact AmeriCorps Seniors Volunteer Coordinator Anne Greshin (agreshin@cvcoa.org or 802-241-4840).

Mount Mansfield School District tax rates decrease

By Edye Graning, Chair, School Board, Mt. Mansfield Unified Union School District

The MMUUSD budget as approved by voters in March resulted in a decrease of 7.43% in our equalized homestead tax rate ($1.3035 last year to $1.2066 this year). We continue to take great care in spending to optimize educational costs. Additionally, our statewide education fund again had a one-time surplus which is being returned to taxpayers.

These lower rates are not expected to continue and will likely influence increases in subsequent years.

More than any change in the school tax rate, year-to-year differences in an individual taxpayer bill are highly influenced by changes in property values as shown in their town Common Level of Appraisal (CLA), and by changes in their household income (from two calendar years ago to the previous calendar year). Most Vermont homeowners receive a property tax adjustment on their property tax bill. As of 2022, this applied to households with incomes below $138,500 (be sure to file a homestead declaration, property tax credit claim, and household income schedule with your annual state income tax return, if applicable).

Education property taxes are collected statewide. To ensure that homeowners pay education taxes based on the fair market value of their homes, the Vermont Department of Taxes conducts an annual study of home sales and adjusts the appraised values in each town by their Common Level of Appraisal (CLA). Richmond and Bolton completed reappraisals this year. Impact speed limits. of the Common Level of Appraisal:

	pre-CLA	CLA	with CLA
Bolton	$1.2066	122.92%	$0.9816
Huntington	$1.2066	72.75%	$1.6586
Jericho	$1.2066	81.78%	$1.4754
Richmond	$1.2066	114.98%	$1.0494

Copley winner at Scramble

In most sports there are winners and those who come in second. In golf, however, everyone is a winner, including Copley, especially at last week's Copley Scramble tournament. Saturday, July 15 was a perfect golfing day for the full field of golf enthusiasts and amateurs who participated in the hospital's annual Copley Scramble Golf Tournament. Copley officials are pleased to announce that after a beautiful day of 18 holes of play, the hospital came away as the biggest winner. "We are truly grateful to our many sponsors and players who helped raise more than $27,700," said Copley's VP Development & Marketing Trish Rick. Rick noted that proceeds from the event will help fund the building and outfitting of Copley's new Waterbury Medical Office Building, saying, "Soon we will be breaking ground for a 10,000 square-foot facility to relocate our current Waterbury orthopedic clinic that will allow for additional providers and services including podiatry and rehabilitation." Rick noted that the golf event kicks off the fundraising for this project.

The tournament was held at the Copley Country Club. "This was our 36th annual tournament. I am truly amazed at what great supporters Copley has, and for an event that continues to be one of the hospital's signature fundraising events," continued Rick.

Following the post-play luncheon, prizes — courtesy of area businesses — were awarded to the top four teams with the lowest scores. They were: first place team: Joe Woodin, Bob Bleimeister, Tad Lamell, and Ayden Slayton; second place team: Team Mumley Engineering — Tyler and Ani Mumley, Kelly Langston, and Luke Columbo; third place team: Team Copley and friend — Travis Knapp, Berta Baxter, James Wills, and Courtney Olmsted, MD; fourth place team: Team DBI — Cody Johnston, Bill Paine, Josh Lockwood, and James Beane.

Recognition was also given to the team who had the "most fun" on the course (highest score) team: Andy Duff, Liam Gannon, Patrick Heaghney, and Geralyn Roscoe.

Additional prizes were awarded for longest drive and closest to the pin: men's closest to the pin: Mark Connor; women's closest to the pin: Courtney Olmsted, MD; men's longest drive: Luke Columbo; women's longest drive: Jena Woods.

"I especially want to offer my sincere appreciation to our presenting sponsor, Connor Contracting, Inc., and to all our sponsors, as well as the Copley Country Club for their support. I'd also like to thank the many area businesses that made this event possible through their contributions," continued Rick. "Copley Hospital may have taken home the winnings, but everyone involved in this event was a winner, as their continued support allows Copley to deliver high quality care to all those in need."
